Summary, Extended Outlook

The Pacific storm system that with near normal temperatures was to move northward rapidly across our valleys during the past 24 hours "Ind" is now located in Western Wyoming. Northern Utah and Northern Nevada.

It was dry as it moved through the Intermountain Region, but winds were strong, including gusts along the way.

Higher pressure is rebuilding over the Pacific Northwest and clear to partly cloudy skies are the rule in Southern Idaho today. Some cooler air in the mountains will bring more rain, precipitation is indicated through Monday.

Temperatures during the next five days will remain favorable for fruiting of the soils for the "Cooler" Air following the rain. Cool air and daytime readings will be 10° cooler, skies and light wind to maybe occur in western and central valleys. Freezing temperatures will return to eastern valleys, maximum temperatures less than 70°. Warmer weather tomorrow will bring daytime temperatures back into the upper 60's into the 70's.

The extended weather outlook calls for temperatures to continue average to above normal, warning the latter part of the month will give way to cooler

Teacher Has Uncommon Dedication

SANDWICH, Ill. (AP)—David E. Graf, honored by President Johnson as 1968's National Teacher of the Year, is a man with an uncommon dedication to helping disabled learners.

Graf, 51, is the coordinator of a diversified remedial education program in Sandwich, a town of 5,000 about 60 miles west of Chicago. His pioneering efforts in this program, which trains students in local businesses and industries, have won him a spot in the national Hall of Fame with his monthly receipt of $600 by the national recognition.

Robert Turner, Sandwich superintendent of schools, said Graf was instrumental in establishing training and employment program for the mentally retarded.

The project, Open Door Inc., provides workshop for the retarded in the community, with local industry. Turner said, Graf's work puts him in constant contact with both students and local businesses, the superintendent said.

"Dave's a very good public relations man," Turner said. His efforts were rewarded recently, local donations to build a $30,000 building in house the workshop.

Leonard Barber, sandwich mayor, said Graf doesn't take part in many other organizations. "He's devoted to his teaching and work with the retarded," Barber said.

Turner, 50, has been with the school for 30 years and his work with the mentally handicapped has given him, "a tremendous lift."

A lack of hospital emergency facilities in the Treasure Valley area.

Farm Bureau Stand On Center Reiterated

Although county commissioners have approved a $12,000 appropriation for the proposed mental retardation center in the South Central Idaho area, the Farm Bureau reiterated their stand Wednesday against proposed financing of the project.

In a statement Wednesday, Louis Remke, president of the Twin Falls County Farm Bureau, said, "Farm taxpayers here would continue to battle for more equitable financing of the center."

Because the facility, a day care center for treatment and diagnosis of mentally retarded children, is to be located in the state who might require the services of local clinics, funds should come from all counties in the region. This would be the Magic Valley area in general," Remke said.

In the questions drafted by the Farm Bureau and answered by the retardation center committee and state officials, it was agreed another $50,000 in federal funds would have to be raised in the local area. The local funds now provided by the county and South Central Idaho Farm Bureau, plus a high premium on bonds for the program, would cover the first phase of the program is to be achieved.

The sponsoring committee also pointed out that if both phases H and II were constructed, the state would pay for the staffing of the center.

Participating will be the Junior High Band, the Eighth Grade Boys' Choir, Girls' Chorus, Mixed Chorus and the Ninth Grade Band.

The band will play "Song of Victory" by Purcell, "Stille Nacht," "Bohm," "Nummer 10" of the "St. Pauli" boys' choir, "Dona Nobis Pacem" with orchestra, "A Drunken Sailor" arranged by Stoen and "All Through the Night" by Wick.

The Girls' Chorus will sing "Veni Jesus," Cherubini; "All That I Want," Donizetti, and "Casta Diva," Donizetti.

The Ninth Grade Mixed Chorus will sing "Heilige Drei," Händel; "Am Is in Thy Mist," Morley; "Chloro-Somno," Kuhntz; "Grade-Mixed Chorus" numbers will include "Joshua Füh die Bataille de Jericho," arranged by Reed; "Tum Balalaika" and "America the Beautiful," both arranged by Van der Linde.

Water Outlook Worse In Southern Part Of County

By ROBERT VANASDELIN
Times-News Farm Editor

The water outlook for the Salmon and Rosebud tracts is getting worse and will continue to do so at present conditions, continue.

During the past month the snow depth in the Salmon River basin has been below normal and the total spring precipitation has been down. With little or no precipitation, cold winds and cold nights, the expected runoff will be lower than forecast a month ago.

A month ago the water runoff forecast was 80 to 90 percent of normal. The snow survey estimated about 60 to 65 percent of normal. The snow survey just completed by members of the Twin Falls Soil District shows the expected runoff may be only 55 to 60 percent of normal.

George Hedrick, Twin Falls Soil Conservation supervisor, says if present conditions continue in the forecast month runoff will be high.

The soil moisture is very good at high elevations, but below 6,500 feet the soil is very dry.

Rains are needed to improve the runoff in the reservoirs.

Justice Douglas Gets His Wings Clipped

WASHINGTON — Parents whose authority has been usurped by way-out schoolmasters and the New Breed of political administrators, a "clear-cut victory" in the Supreme Court, the other day. Over, of course, the figuratively dead body of the court's professional naughty boy, Justice William O. Douglas.

Chief Justice Earl Warren's 4-3 decision that states may pass laws forbidding it a crime to sell smutty books and magazines to children acknowledges that parents have rights as well as responsibilities. As Justice William Brennan noted in his majority opinion, the

New York law in question was valid as a measure to "uphold and support household discipline."

Quite aside from the ruling's other ramifications, it is nice to have an American court use an old-fashioned word like "discipline," especially as it pertains to the home. In the present permissive atmosphere of this crazy mixed country, it is something to note that the parents' file is limited to getting up the tuisen-and-marijuana money, while abdicating the disciplinary bit to an assortment of emancipated and mealy-mouthed high school principals, college deans and proprietors of happy joints.

Next thing you know, the cops in Washington will start arrest TV interviewers and newspaper reporters over setting fires to stations and apartment buildings.

There was a felicitous note often lacking in the Warren Court's decisions in U.S. cases: "The state also has an independent interest in the well-being of its youth." Brennan liked New York's ban on selling dirty printed matter to kids to child-labor laws, a nice point which remains useful of the principle that the parent traditionally possesses the right to protect his young. The majority sees it differently, however, and is liable to see it differently in the future. The New York case involved a statute that sold 17 a more restricted right than that assured to adults.

Brennan might have mentioned that age of 21 is not yet voting. This limitation of authority is based on the grounds noted by Justice Potter Stewart in a concurring opinion; to wit, that children lack the capacity for independent thought and understanding, and freedom of expression, guaranteed provided in the First Amendment. Both Brennan and Stewart were saying, in effect, that one of the requirements of full and complete freedom is adulthood.

Justice Douglas's dissent had the flavor of the philosophy which exclusively involves the right of grownups to protect the young from printed or photographic material they believe is harmful. Nothing in the New York law suggests that sex is sinful, but it does suggest the smut peddlers deserve it.

In the bad old days when kids were subject to parental rule,

I found a "delicious and guilty wickedness" in the works of Havelock Ellis, a courageous, uncompromising proponent of sex. The corruption, if any, in his relatively bland phrases was not lasting, perhaps because they were mostly incomprehensible. But in that era, the grownups had the last word on such literature, and there were no round-table discussions about the First Amendment.

Away We Go

It isn't quite clear whether Nelson Rockefeller was drafted, heard the call or planned it all along the line, but now his entry into the race for the biggest job in the United States puts the load on the shoulders of Dick Nixon.

In Boise the other day Mr. Nixon indicated he expected that Mr. Rockefeller would announce and that this announcement would change his (Nixon's) campaign strategy. And indeed it will.

For these many weeks Mr. Nixon has had no opposition, and, as a result, his campaign has been slowing down. Now with formidable opposition to say the least, it will be stepped up to the point it will be going all out.

Mr. Nixon is well liked in Idaho. Mr. Rockefeller's popularity remains to be tested in this area but we are sure to get a look at him because he will no doubt visit the state before the Miami convention.

The race will be interesting. It will put two men in competition who are as different as the North and South poles. It wasn't very many years ago that Mr. Nixon took to the television screen to tell the public he still owed a substantial mortgage on his modest home. Mr. Rockefeller has never had to make any such declaration.

There is no doubt but that the big decision—whether it will be Mr. Nixon or Mr. Rockefeller—will be made at Miami.

But the trail from this point to Miami will be an active one and Idaho will get into the act. The delegations from here to the Florida convention do not carry much weight as voting power goes.

But every little bit helps and support from Idaho's delegation will be sought actively by both men.

Politics Vs P.O.

If there ever was one person who stood the best chance of transforming the archaic Post Office Department into an efficient and smoothly operating arm of the federal government it was Lawrence F. O'Brien.

And now he's leaving as postmaster general for a position on the staff of a family friend, Sen. Robert Kennedy.

O'Brien gave the old college try to what many believe an impossible assignment.

He instituted an automation program, created an office of planning and elevated his office of research and engineering into a prestigious role that attracted highly qualified people from private enterprise.

There is little question that O'Brien genuinely sought business-like methods.

Seventeen months after his appointment he advocated doing away with his own job as outmoded. "If we ran our telephone system this way," he joked at the time, "the carrier pigeon business would still have a great future."

Many Americans still believe their mail is being delivered by carrier pigeon and a one-winged pigeon at that. But the innovations which did come from O'Brien were significant and offered a measure of hope.

Perhaps O'Brien's greatest single contribution is the growing realization that any ultimate solution to the postal-service-formidable problems lies in tuking the department out of its present context entirely.

Unfortunately, however, O'Brien resigned before he told anybody how this is to be achieved.

Maybe that's why he quit? For the more fathomable world of partisanship.

MR. SPECTATOR

The Matter Of Seat Belts

Lots of things are understandable in this old world—but not the fact that there are still some drivers who never stop that seat belt extender from their shoulder.

Statistics are dry reading, we know, but accident statistics are easy to understand and without listing my percentages, Mr. Spectator would like to point out that when you drive, or when you are a passenger in a car, you have a lot better chance to not get hurt if you had a belt on when you have your seat belt on, when it is simply spread over the seat.

Now the 1968 cars have gone a step further and shoulder straps are required equipment.

How many will use the new shoulder strap? Mr. Spectator tried his best for the other day and found it was reassuring. Use of the shoulder strap along with the regular seat belt will, if a wreck comes, keep Spectator's face from spreading over the driving wheel or the dashboard.

Use of such simple things as seat belts to save a life—perhaps your life or that of some friend or loved one riding with you—should come as a second nature.

Just the other day in Twin Falls—or rather just outside the city limits on the road to one of the prettiest falls in the Snake River Canyon, a car with four people in it, including a couple of kids, a car and a truck, the grade went out of control and ended up upside down. Fortunately the two occupants—two young girls—had their soft belts in use. They ended hanging upside down and only one was slightly hurt. It would have been much worse had the next belt not been.

Safety measures now required in automobiles by the federal government will be of little use unless the people who ride in them—who drive them—use these safety measures.

Experts in the field guarantee that this kind of safety feature will give us more than twice the chance of cutting out injury in an accident than if you do not use them.

And yet there are many drivers who do not seem to care. Surely, you're not one of those, are you?

MR. SPECTATOR SAYS:

No one but an old ground would refuse to buy candy from a pretty girl selling door-to-door for the local benefit. Well, here's one broke old ground.

PAUL HARVEY

Food Costs Less

The cost of living was up 3.4 percent last year. Sad another way, your dollar bill shrank 3½ cents last year. Government statistics blame mostly "higher food costs."

It is not the farmer getting rich that causes your food to cost so much. There are lots of middlemen between him and you. But, the fat pickpocket who's picking your pocket is the tax man.

Example: leaving the farmer altogether out of the equation, the truck that hauls his grain to the mill and his beef to the market and his processed products to the store—that truck had to be bought and paid for by the farmer, the grocer, the store owner who makes more than most any farmer. The purchaser of the truck paid taxes on the purchase, taxes on the gas, taxes on replacement tires and license plates on the driver's income.

Then comes profit—a modest profit—always less than 3 cents on a loaf of bread—but the grocer must immediately pay out more than half of that in taxes, corporate income tax, Social Security tax for employees, monthly electric bill plus tax, and so on and on and on.

So even while the cost of production is going down, your retail price is going up—because the federal and state tax take increases every year.

I have backtracked on and taken 151 separate taxes on a loaf of bread.

You're not being overcharged; you're just overtaxed.

Everyone in America, and Japan, that is, makes some profit on that loaf of bread, but the tax man takes more than all of them put together.

Hidden taxes double the price of your bread and threaten to double it again.

Food costs less. The multiplicity of taxes makes it seem like more.

There are 200 separate transactions involved in getting a quart of milk from the pasture to your doorstep and a tax on each.

Last year, while your food prices were rising up the farm, the grocery bills declined 7.5%.

Food store profits were declining. But the ghost with the big pieces of the actor was, the federal and state tax taker, skimming in the back room.

Gasoline would sell for two cents a gallon except for taxes.

Now, we have more people who say that they have no husband.

They say that maybe the people don't want democracy, aren't capable of it or don't care.

To set things in perspective, we must go back to World War II against Japan and Germany.

It is interesting to note that when the victory was won in the years after Japan and Germany surrendered, the United States then went all-out to build democracies where there had been none. We did create a whole new society.

We did create a whole new working government of, by and for the people. Now these two former enemies are bulwarks of democracy, stability and reason in this unequal world.

We were not so good in Germany and West Germany. Germans argue our actions then, though well-intended, helped create the unsettled condition there led to Hitler.

By World War II, we had learned the shooting war is only half the battle. We can leave秀子 and Mao to Hitler, a Mao or a Stalin. We can build a democracy, which can lead to a Japan or a West Germany today.

In the United States, it is not the political parties alone which assure us of this victory. We achieve democracy through membership in thousands of voluntary organizations, P.T.A.s, Boy Scout troops, associations of manufacturers, women's clubs, college and high school student associations, 4-H clubs, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, civic, churches, etc., etc. We have to have an effective police force for the political parties.

In World War II, we won this "other war" in Japan and in West Germany after the shooting was over. South Vietnam is more than a shooting war. The second half of the war—the political constructive part—while the shooting goes on, we will lose both wars.

pay five federal taxes plus state taxes in every state through which the shipment passes.

So while you have been guarding your wallet, the tax man has been emptying your coat pocket.

When you buy a loaf of bread, this is the usual federal and state taxes—the fourth of the purchase price, in hidden taxes.

Everyone pays taxes. Big corporations pay no taxes. All those "costs of operation" they pass on to you. Only people pay taxes. All the rest of those fellows pay taxes. All the rest of those fellows pay taxes. The prices of what the sell to you and me. We pay their taxes. Only people pay taxes.

Gasoline would sell for two cents a gallon except for taxes.

The second half of the war—the political constructive part—while the shooting goes on, we will lose both wars.

One of the things with the Vietnamese war is that no one has been able to write a war song to bring them together. Everyone knows you can't have a good war without a song so some people can sing and whistle back in the United States.

For four years, Timpani Alley has been having day and night on a war song without success. The other day I looked in on Timpani Alley and he said, "I'm still writing a war song, but this war just doesn't seem to be the old drive, the old cause, the old Patton, the old MacArthur, the old Prado, the old Lord and—Pass the Ammunition."

Lee said, "The fun's gone out of war-song writing."

I said, "I can't believe it, man. You can't tell me that after all these years you guys don't come up with an inspiring tune that would make this country believe we're doing the right thing."

Lee sat down at the piano and started to sing: "Over there—Over there—Send the word—Send the word—To beware—Within negotiation—There'll be no peace—And we won't stop the bombing 'til it's over, over there."

Lee said, "I'm no Let's Remember Pearl Harbor."

"It isn't over," Lee said, "We're still here over there—We're coming over there—and we're going to stay there until we've got the Vietnamese off our backs."

Lee said, "I don't know what's the matter with us. How do you like this one? 'Pack up your napkin in your old kid bag—And smile, smile, smile!'"

Lee said, "I can't send 'em, I had to admit."

"The trouble with this drama is," Lee said, "it's that it's got too many sociological aspects. It's so complicated."

"That's right," Lee agreed, "I have you ever tried to write a war song?"

Lee wrote "Shut Your Trap" for George J. Gershwin and Leo Robin in 1942. Lee said, "It's 12 minutes long."

"And don't forget the 'Auf Wiedersehen, Pet,'" Lee added.

"Those were the good old days," Lee said, "but you could really get your teeth into the enemy. We had yellow-bellied Krauts and a bunch of gooks—stepping Krauts."

"And I—I—lipped Mussolini hanging over the balcony," Lee said.

"And Tokyn Rose and Lord Haw-Haw and fat-faced Goering, and all the bigphobic Man, they were number one."

"Not that I'm complaining, but all these taxes really take a lot out of you."

"Other War" Will Be A Task

VIENTIANE, LAOS — From here one thing seems clear: We can win the war in South Vietnam.

This is the conclusion of a study by the Institute of Politics at Berkeley, which reported friendships among teenagers at three East Coast junior high schools Aug. 15, findings.

Children enter the eighth grade already finished with prejudices, and they do not grow greatly during the high school years.

There is a trend over the grades toward some decrease in expressed social distance between Jews, but the change is toward increased social distance.

Prejudice toward Negroes is definitely stronger than prejudices toward Jews, by all measures and in all communities.

The picture we gain from questionnaires answered by teachers," says psychologist M. Brewster Smith, director of the institute. "There is one of passivity and unconcern."

That is little or no classroom discussion.

Today, democratic Japan and Germany would be easily understood.

These ideas and associations remain in power have and in the better administration of laws. They act as checks and balances on each other, and increase the power of the government, but that's what democracy means.

It is this give and take which makes a democracy work.

This report notes that almost immediately after the John Lewis strike, we saw a merging of the labor movement, the U.S. Army and the U.S. Navy in the same department. It can cut out a fire, it is not set up to rebuild your house.

Until now Vietnam has been a military force in South Vietnam to prevent Ho Chi Minh's armies from taking over the country.

Ho Chi Minh's forces are fighting to the death, but the U.S. Army is fighting to the death.

Senate Moves For Building

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted only once since last session, while slashing federal spending $6 billion, now has taken a first step toward giving itself a new office building critics contend will cost the taxpayers $100 million.

The vote was 42 to 33 Tuesday to measure authorizing $1.25 million for preparation of what would be the third Senate office building.

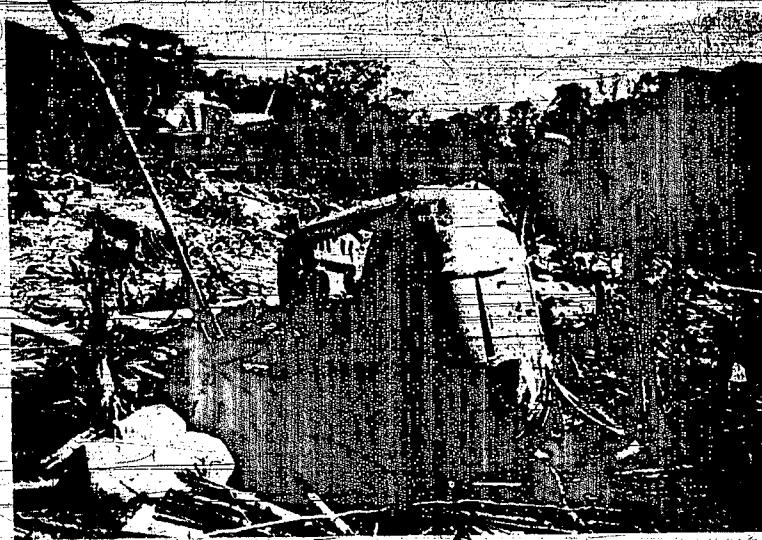

The approval overrode protest by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., author of the Senate-passed tax-cut spending cut measure who concluded congressional economy should start at home.

Williams, noting that until 10 years ago the Senate had only one office building for 96 members, said: "We constructed our own little office space—although only 4 more senators—those from Alaska and Hawaii—have been added in that period."

Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., managing the bill, rejected Williams' assertion the land is being bought "with the ultimate intent of building another $100 million office building."

A preliminary estimate, Jordan said, is that the building will cost $24 million. Money for the land acquisition still must be appropriated, and any construction also would face dual authorization-appropriation process.

Of the 42 senators voting for the land purchase authorization, 19 had voted in late March to

LOW BIDDER

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — Seaway Construction Co. of Spokane, Tuesday was the apparent low bidder for the general construction contract on the University of Idaho's million dollar Women's Health Education building.

The Seaway firm bid $393,792 for the work, lowest among nine bidders.

Bingham Mechanical Co. of Moscow submitted the apparent low bid of $226,434 for mechanical work. And Tri-State Electric of Boise had the apparent low bid of $96,464 for electrical work.

TRANSFER FAVORED

IDAHOTIMES (AP) — Idaho Falls taxpayers voted overwhelmingly in favor of a mill levy transfer that will make more money available for operations in School District 91. Of the 2,941 votes cast, 2,001 were in favor of the proposal and 940 against. This was an 87 per cent approval.

School officials said the vote to approve transfer of a 4.4 mill levy from the bond interest fund to the maintenance and operation fund. They said it would provide $100,000 additional money for salaries, textbooks and building renovation.

COURT ACTION TOLD

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho State Supreme Court Tuesday upheld a Sixth District Court judgement from Bear Lake County which foreclosed a mortgage and judgement lie-in favor of the First National Bank of Preston and the W. Brewster tire Co., Ogden.

In other action, the high court upheld a fourth District Court judgement granting Marilyn Jean Barker, Mountain Home, a divorce from U.S. Air Force Capt. John Perlin Barker.

Czech Aide
Vows Purge
Of Stalinists

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's interior minister promised Tuesday that his department and the police would be purged of old-line Stalinists. He also announced that wire-tapping equipment is now outlawed.

Three or four deputy ministers together with other top officials will be replaced, Interior Minister Josef Smrk said. The Czech news agency CTK, he added, that personnel changes would go "down to the ground."

Prague launched a careful investigation of all officials who took part in the Stalinist purges of the 1950s and said all "defaulter" will have to answer to the law or will be dismissed from the police force.

The shake-up in the police department came to light on April 12, when Pavel disclosed that police would be purged of agents from the regular civilian police services. This move was recommended in the Action Program of party chief Alexander Dubcek, spokesman of the new liberal cause. At that time Pavel also said he was trying to repudiate from the force "people who violated the law."

Pre-School
Roundup Set
For Blaine

HAILEY — Annual Pre-School Roundup for Blaine County children will be held during May. Parents of prospective first graders this fall should attend the meeting at the school gymnasium May 13 at the multi-purpose room of Hailey Grade School; at 1 p.m. May 14 in the lunch room at the Carey School and at 1 p.m. May 15 in the gymnasium of the Ketchum Grade School. This meeting is only for parents.

The following week, at the same time and places, Jean Mizer, guidance counselor for Blaine County schools, will give the school readiness test to the children. Jean Mizer urges that on this date parents bring their children to the school, leave them for the test and return for them at the close of the meeting.

Wheat Price Support Rates Are Boosted

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special) — Price support loans for wheat have been increased in 14 western Idaho counties, Sen. Frank Church, Democrat of Idaho, said Tuesday.

In removing notes for these counties from strict relationships with rates at the Portland terminal, Agriculture Department officials emphasized that the new rates would help winter and some hard spring wheat while continuing western areas produce soft white wheat.

Rates for 1968 crop loans will be increased three cents in Bonneville, Clallam, Kitsap, Grays Harbor, Lewis, Jefferson, Clallam, Lewis, Lincoln, Franklin, Columbia, Bear Lake, Fremont and Clark counties.

Other counties will receive "a few cents," Mr. Church said. The demand to further review the situation toward future upward revisions.

State, Local Funds Pay For Schools

George George Havens told the Harrison School Board yesterday that state and local government provides more than $80 percent of the total amount spent on elementary and secondary education in Idaho's public schools.

"In these days of great emphasis on new and emerging programs it becomes increasingly important for the nation to begin to realize the federal programs are carrying the bulk of the load in financing the educational system of this nation."

This concept is erroneous and striking at the heart of our national concept of public schools. It is not the federal government but the local governments which provide over 90 per cent of the total amount spent on elementary and secondary education in Idaho's public schools.

Of that amount, less than one dollar out of each ten comes from the federal government. This is a fact, and we must make sure that the public is less than 7 percent of the total because the bulk of the expense is at the state and local level, and because it is at that level that programs can best be tailor-made to suit peculiar conditions.

"State and local government should insist on retaining major control over the operation and operation of educational systems. The progress of this country has been great under this system. We should not allow the potential it provides to be sidetracked."

Citing the Job Corp programs as a prime example of the failure of the federal government to run its own educational division, Hansen said it cost at least $7,000 to educate a Job Corpsman each year in the federal government's poverty program.

Survivors include his business partner, John Coffman, Sacramento, Calif.; Harvey Coffman, Pocatello; Raymond Coffman and Arthur W. Coffman Jr., both Rupert; four daughters, Mrs. W. E. (Juanita) Hammon, The Dalles;

Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. (Dorothy) Burton, Burton; Mrs. George (Rosie) Wheeler, Salem, Ore., and Mrs. Bill (Lillian) Larsen, Dutch John, Utah; 31 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren.

Puneral services will be held at 1 p.m. Friday at the Rupert Church of Christ by Rev. Aylett E. Eaylett. Burial will be held in the Rupert Cemetery. Friends may call at the Walk Mortuary.

Thursday afternoon and evening and at the church Friday one hour prior to services.

Funeral Services

DECOL — Funeral services for Mrs. Mae L. Leonard will be conducted at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Burley Presbyterian Church by Rev. John Pickering.

The service will be given by Thelma Bergend, pastor, Pocatello Art Guild members living out of Twin Falls County were urged to attend the meetings because they must attend three times a month.

The day-long efforts of the students included not only the school grounds but the LDS seminary, the gymnasium and recreation hall, and the nearby parks.

The climax of the day's activities was the ceremonial planting of trees and shrubs to enhance the beauty of the school grounds.

School officials noted that Arbor Day originated nearly 100 years ago in Nebraska, where it was first observed on April 10, 1872. The idea was proposed by George Washington Carver, then a member of the state board of agriculture, and later the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture.

About 1892, the plan of making Arbor Day a school festival was originated.

Starting at 12 o'clock Noon Lunch will be served.

Class B District Meet To Feature Wendell's Third Title, Top Hurdle Field

The Wendell Trojans will win victory and will battle Kimberly for third consecutive title for the mile crown. The other district Class B track and field champion — Friday evening — and the deMolay boys will race in the hurdles while the schools from three sub-districts compete in the Brian Stadium in twin meets.

Again the event schedule is held in conjunction with the Class B with the Class B field events starting at 4:30 p.m. The Class A preliminaries will start at 5:30 p.m. with the running finals to begin immediately after the track meet will be held Saturday evening.

It would take a real reversal of form for Wendell to lose the team championship with senior Dennis Jacobson and Brandon Hansen leading the way. Dennis has a finger on the button for second spot.

While the team trophies are nice, the important thing is placing in the top three for those will go to individuals who will advance to the regional meet in the Atlanta area.

For the most part, these top three appear to be pretty much in focus. The hurdles are where defending champ Tom Overlie and the two best hurdlers from Hagerman, Bruce and Karl Darrington, both Dec. 10, will have a real battle sending one another to the sidelines in the highs.

They haven't met this year.

Both Darrington and Hagerman show start defeated Karl in both events last week. Overlie, the tallest of the quartet, is the best hurdler, getting over the sticks in a hurry and sprinting well in between. Darrington, too, is fast, hitting several steps with little trouble.

They don't skin the timber like Overlie. The thing that might decide it is hitting hurdles. In a pressure race like this, someone usually starts getting tired and ends up in trouble.

The lows bring in Wendell's Eaton, who is probably the fastest sprinter of the lot and was within a half-foot in his first run with Overlie.

A dual duel looms in the quarterfinals when Jacobson and Hansen's Dale Barnard meet for the second time. Barnard, having won the first meeting at the Boise College invitational, has been reprimanded by the district, received a six-day suspension last year.

Chuck Hitler, a seven-year major league vet who also found the Cardinals last spring, has the best chance to beat him.

hander pitcher who was with Atlanta in 1967 but also was sent out in the fall, has been seen

NCAA Will Ask Congress To Charter New Group To Control Track And Field

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News Sports Editor

The initial impact of clearing 15 feet in the pole vault has become apparent.

Twin Falls' Scott Cryder accomplished thefeat Friday in the Southern Idaho track and field meet at the airport. Coach Jerry Kleinkopf, right, was present.

As predicted, Coach's school's market rose perceptibly, but called Tuesday morning to reject there was a ticket in Scott's name at the Twin Falls airport—and would—the young man be that school's guest over the weekend, taking in a Saturday afternoon meet at Provo?

"But the one call that pleased Coach Kleinkopf more than any other was from a local pole-vault manufacturer's representative, who Coach Kleinkopf said must be a pole-vault nut."

The man represented Thermoflex out of Salina, Kans., so Coach Kleinkopf felt he should tell him right off that Scott accomplished thefeat on a Skyline.

"I hardly敢说 at that the man went into details of vaulting that were very encouraging," Coach Kleinkopf quoted the man as saying. "The following noteworthy items:

1. Runway speed is vastly over-rated and is not essential.
2. Pole length is not important.
3. It's nice but ranks behind several things that Cryder evidently does well.
4. He praised the fact that Cryder was holding 10 feet, 9 inches of pole when he cleared 15 feet.
5. "It's not the rule," he said.
6. "Kleinkopf quoted the man as saying, "There are too many going 14 feet who are holding 14 feet of pole. They are limited simply because they will sooner or later run out of strength."

The result also will bring about some hours. When his name appears in the news, it's safe to assume that he will have several more letters coming from college coaches around the country."

Meanwhile, back at the runway, Cryder is still a year over 15, which has to affect him, so he went to work on running.

"I feel that I have something to prove," the youngster said. "Because of the wind Friday, a lot of people think it was a fluke and the 15-foot vault is controversial. I want to prove to them that I can do it again. I don't know if it's necessary for me to hit 15 feet again, but at least can approximate it."

"This is the kind of thing that could pay you," said the man who is in one of the great "psych" events in athletics. "You say to yourself, 'I'm going to do better than when you told me not to say that, then I suppose you already are, a little.'"

He acknowledged a new feeling of confidence, not surprising since most of this spring has been a matter of measuring progress, not just fractions. The 15-foot vault, of course, helps in this area but the big thing is the new pole.

"I feel Friday that the wind was probably helping me but the new pole was the big thing," Cryder pointed out. "The thing is that, at last I think, I'm getting closer to the limit. I don't know if I can do it again. I don't know if I decided I'd have to use the more flexible one. In fact, I was going to send the big one back. I took one practice vault with the smaller one Saturday, then tried 10 feet with the big one. Then I did 12 feet with the big one over the bar and I decided then I was going to use it all day. I don't know why I was suddenly able to bend it so much. Maybe it was because of the wind and maybe because I was in complete form. I don't care. Today [they] got within 10 feet and I can't get within 10 feet and that is what has given me some new confidence."

The best thing for anyone to remember here, however, is that Cryder is the state's first 15-foot-pole-vaulter. His record stands on the big one. The record book says that a 4.7 mile-per-hour wind is too much wind for record-counting in "springs."

The initial impact of clearing 15 feet in the pole vault has become apparent.

Twin Falls' Scott Cryder accomplished thefeat Friday in the Southern Idaho track and field meet at the airport. Coach Jerry Kleinkopf, right, was present.

As predicted, Coach's school's market rose perceptibly, but called Tuesday morning to reject there was a ticket in Scott's name at the Twin Falls airport—and would—the young man be that school's guest over the weekend, taking in a Saturday afternoon meet at Provo?

"But the one call that pleased Coach Kleinkopf more than any other was from a local pole-vault manufacturer's representative, who Coach Kleinkopf said must be a pole-vault nut."

The man represented Thermoflex out of Salina, Kans., so Coach Kleinkopf felt he should tell him right off that Scott accomplished thefeat on a Skyline.

"I hardly敢说 at that the man went into details of vaulting that were very encouraging," Coach Kleinkopf quoted the man as saying. "The following noteworthy items:

1. Runway speed is vastly over-rated and is not essential.

2. Pole length is not important.

3. It's nice but ranks behind several things that Cryder evidently does well.

4. He praised the fact that Cryder was holding 10 feet, 9 inches of pole when he cleared 15 feet.

5. "It's not the rule," he said.

6. "Kleinkopf quoted the man as saying, "There are too many going 14 feet who are holding 14 feet of pole. They are limited simply because they will sooner or later run out of strength."

The result also will bring about some hours. When his name appears in the news, it's safe to assume that he will have several more letters coming from college coaches around the country."

Want to help, why don't you look in on the old gentleman? (You don't have to be a relative to extend a kindness.) Writing to me without a clue of who YOU are, who HE is, or even single room in a local hotel, if he's still there, who he lives, is futile, and your kind offer won't help him much, either.

He can't dress himself, or bathe very well, and his eyesight is failing, so the maids help him. The maids take better care of him than his own family does.

Several months ago, a maid found him on the bathroom floor. He had fallen the night before and couldn't get up, so he just laid there, cold and shivering all night.

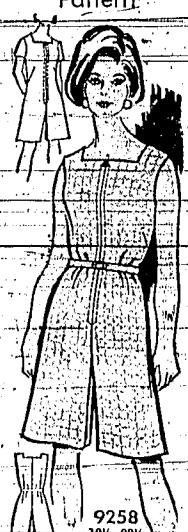

He eats only once a day, often skipping breakfast, because that's usually oatmeal and coffee. On Sundays the kitchen is closed, so he doesn't eat from Saturday morning until Monday morning.

How can people be so heartless? Today is Sunday, and believe me Abby, my appetite is gone just thinking about that poor old, neglected man.

Illness Assists
Businesswoman's

Accomplishments

By (AP) NEWSFEATURES
If it weren't for a stroke suffered 10 years ago, Mrs. Van Davis Odell of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., wouldn't be the successful businesswoman she is today.

One of the big problems of her illness was the usually simple operation of dressing. Mrs. Odell discovered that fastening herself into her bra, girdle or corset belt, then she learned that no garments existed that were designed specifically to make life easier for the nation's 10 million disabled women.

As a result of her personal need, Mrs. Odell created a line of lingerie, obtainable only by mail order, so that women with limited motion can dress themselves unassisted.

In addition to her mail-order business, Mrs. Odell, an ex-divorced copywriter, carries on a successful advertising agency which represents women from all over the country.

AVOIDANCE PLAY SETS CONTRACT

The late George Kiling was one of the great players of the 20s. Today he is gone, but his bridge record stands. In April, 1930, he won the Bridge World of April, 1930, entitled "The Lead of a Singleton."

George was obviously a conservative bidder. He did not double or overcall. He made his contract had he played his bidding plan.

He held the 10c. George realized that his partner was marked with the 10c. In spite of a diamond ruff to defeat the contract, there was nothing sensational about this defense. Today it would be almost automatic for any good player who would reason that there would be nothing to lose by availing himself of spades.

Mr. Kiling pointed out that this avoidance play would work this time, if it would cost the contract if East held the ace of hearts and West had started with two diamonds. In this case, he would give his partner the diamond ruff which would only be available because the avoidance play had given the defense a chance to lead a second diamond.

CARD SENSE

The bidding has been: West: A Q 6 5 4 3; North: E 10 6 4 2; South: V 8 6 5; East: V 6 5 4 3; V 10 3; V 10 2.

Both vulnerable. West: North, East, South: 4. Past: Pass. Opening lead: V K.

the fact that East had signaled a come-on with the eight spot, Mr. Kiling shifted to his singleton diamond. South won in dummy and East showed lack of any other diamonds by playing his first spot.

A heart was led and won by West's ace. West proceeded to lead his three clubs. East took his ace and gave George
